Sex offender jailed for 'chat' with 8-year-old

Ward

Ward was on parole for distributing 'obscene' matter to minors

By Ben Carlson
News staff

A Lawrenceburg man on parole for distributing "obscene matter to minors" was sentenced to a year in jail last week for violating that parole by interacting with an 8-year-old child on Facebook.

John Allen Ward, 50, of 115.5 Ann Drive pleaded guilty Nov. 12 to carrying on a Facebook conversation from Oct. 20 through Nov. 10, when police executed a search warrant at his home.

"He was having unlawful communications with the child, and he's not supposed to even have any social media program that allows anyone under the age of 18 to register," said Det. Jeremy Cornish of the Lawrenceburg Police Department.

Cornish said Ward was on probation on the distributing charge from Caldwell County, and he is listed as a registered sex offender on the Kentucky

State Police website.

Cornish said he could not divulge the nature of the conversation Ward had with the 8-year-old.

Police reports did not indicate if the child with whom Ward was communicating is from Anderson County.

Rituals abound for students summoning snow days

Kids wear PJs backward, flush ice cubes in all out effort to get day off

From staff reports

It's nothing new for kids to hope for a snow day, but some go to great lengths by performing rituals to summon one.

Several of The Anderson News' Facebook friends confirmed that wearing pajamas inside out and sleeping with a spoon under their pillow are just a few of the things kids are doing to promote a snow day.

One parent commented that her son has an extensive snow day ritual that includes wearing his pajamas inside and backwards, running around the dining room table counter-clockwise, flushing three ice cubes down the toilet, placing three ice cubes in a bowl on the front porch, a snow dance and puts a spoon under every pillow to make sure all his bases are covered.

Others said their children resort to "old fashion prayer" in the hopes of

The children The Anderson News interviewed Monday morning, Blake Overstreet, Gage Gibson, Mason Hatter and Wyatt Drury, said they had heard

Though the boys said they don't go through the elaborate measures to bring about a snow day, it didn't stop them from enjoying the snow with a snowball fight.

Chef offers tips to prepare perfect, flavorful Thanksgiving turkey

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

There are many ways to cook a turkey. Some Anderson News readers say they smoke their turkey, others prefer deep fried turkey, some suggest marinating in beer and honey and another reader said a simplistic salt water brine was the way to go.

If you're still struggling on how to prepare Thanksgiving turkey this year, try this delicious recipe, adapted by chef Kenneth Aubrey of Two Brothers restaurant in Lawrenceburg.

Aubrey was trained at the Culinary Institute of America in New York and has been a chef for 30 years. He walked The Anderson News through how to cook a turkey that's full of flavor.

Once the turkey is thawed, Aubrey suggested brining the turkey.

"Brining adds flavor and juiciness," said Aubrey.

The brine recipe calls for:

- A gallon of vegetable stock (can be substituted for a half gallon of vegetable stock to a half gallon of water, if you prefer)
- 1 tsp of Allspice (use the whole berry)
- 1 1/2 tsp of candied (crystalline) ginger
- 2 Tbsp of black peppercorn
- 1 cup of kosher salt
- 1/2 cup of brown sugar

'Dairy Grinch' declared indigent

Compton scheduled for first court appearance Thursday

From staff reports

Former Dairy Cheer employees hoping they will finally get the pay they were stiffed out of three years ago could be in for yet another Christmas letdown.

Former Dairy Cheer owner Lou Compton, who closed the restaurant here in December of 2011 after writing bad checks to some employees and simply not paying others, was living on social security and driving a 23-year-old car at the time of her arrest last month in Michigan.

She was declared indigent by District Court Judge Betty Springate and will be assigned a public defender when she appears Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in Anderson District Court.

Compton, 68, was living with her brother last month when federal authorities tracked her down just outside of Detroit on 14 counts of theft by unlawful taking.

The affidavit shows Compton was receiving $1,960 a month in social security payments and has been retired for the past two-and-a-half years.

At the time of her arrest, the affidavit shows she was driving a 1991 Buick. She claimed she does not have a mortgage and does not pay rent, but does pay $500 in monthly utilities, $100 month for a cell phone, $350 in insurance and $200 a month for medical debt. The only asset she listed in the affidavit is a vacant lot she owns in Floyd County, valued at $5,000.

Dairy Cheer employees gathered just before Christmas in 2011 and dubbed Compton "Dairy Grinch," with most saying they wouldn't be able to purchase Christmas gifts for their families.

Accused wife beater's attorney quits; bail now $125,000

From staff reports

The Lawrenceburg man accused of abusing his wife on multiple occasions represented himself in Anderson District Court last week after his attorney was granted a motion to quit.

Steven Robinson, 34, of 233 Hunter Ridge Drive remains jailed in numerous charges, the latest stemming from him violating protective orders to stay away from his wife when police found him hiding in her attic Nov. 4.

During his court appearance, District Court Judge Betty Springate accepted attorney Jason Cubert's motion to be removed as Robinson's attorney. In the motion, Cubert said he made the request because Robinson was "acting against advice of council."

Robinson

Robinson then told Springate he wished to defend himself during a preliminary hearing, which ended with his total bail being increased from $100,000 to $125,000 when Springate revoked an earlier $5,000 bond and increased it to $25,000 cash.

Robinson, who faces similar charges in Mercer County, on Sept. 27 allegedly threw his wife "into a box spring, a couch and throughout the residence," according to police reports, leaving his wife with bruising on her arms and red marks on her face, back and throat.

The report also says that Robinson "took a bow from a case, knocked an arrow, pulled back the string and pointed it at her chest."

"The victim stated she was scared he'd kill her," the report adds.

Then on Nov. 4, Robinson, who was living in Mercer County at the time, used his brother's pickup truck to return to his wife's residence, got inside with a key he still had and threatened his wife, telling her not to call the police.

A neighbor saw the truck, however, and called police, who found Robinson hiding in the home's attic.

He remains jailed at the Shelby County Detention Center.

Deadline nears for conservation funds

From staff reports

The USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Kentucky is encouraging landowners, farmers and producers to visit their local NRCS office now to receive information and apply for conservation technical assistance and possible financial funding opportunities.

The application process for NRCS's conservation programs is continuous, but funding selections for specific programs are made throughout the year. For the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) the first application cutoff period date for consideration for 2015 funds is Nov. 21.

Applications received after Nov. 21 will be held until the next application cut off period, which will be March 20, 2015.

EQIP is a conservation program that provides financial and technical assistance to farmers and ranchers who face threats to soil, water, air, and related natural resources on their land. Through EQIP, NRCS develops contracts with agricultural producers to voluntarily implement conservation practices. Persons engaged in livestock or agricultural production and owners of non-industrial private forestland are eligible for this program. Eligible land includes cropland, pastureland, private non-industrial forestland, and other farm or ranch lands.

EQIP offers several National and State Initiatives, which include the Seasonal High Tunnel Initiative, Organic Initiative, On-Farm Energy Initiative, Wildlife Initiative, and Forestry Initiative. Interested land users should visit their local NRCS Office to find out what opportunities are available through each of these EQIP Initiatives.

"We're getting an earlier start on EQIP contracts this year to give farmers more time to install practices," said Deena Wheby, assistant state conservationist for programs.

All recipients of assistance are required to develop a conservation plan.

Conservation planning is an integral part of the conservation process.

Landowners should work with a conservation planner to develop the plan based on the landowner's operational goals to improve the productivity, sustainability and profitability of their operation.

"Good conservation planning helps us identify the practices that will best address a landowner's resource concerns," Wheby said.

The local NRCS office is located at 145 W. Woodford St., Lawrenceburg. For more information visit NRCS on the web at www.ky.nrcs.usda.gov or contact your local office at 839-5667.

Chamber president hired to run Tourism Commission

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

Tourism has been a subject of contention in Anderson County, which was especially brought back into the lime-light during in the recent election.

Pam Brough, chairperson of the Anderson County Tourism Commission, urged the commission members to make a decision on the executive director position during a meeting Wednesday morning.

A decision was made, and Brough was hired for the job. “Tourism needs to get moving,” said Brough. “Whatever we decide, we need to move swiftly. We can’t keep taking a step backwards. We are taking a beating.”

Commission members debated for if someone within the commission should be appointed to the newly created executive director position or if they should advertise to find a candidate for the position.

Todd Hyatt expressed concerns about the executive director becoming too intertwined with economic development and asked that “to stimulate economic development” be removed from the job description.

The commission unanimously agreed on the amended job description to read “the executive director will be responsible for performing administrative and marketing duties to promote tourism within Anderson County.”

“It’s not the executive director’s job to promote economic development. Their job is to promote tourism,” said Hyatt. Hyatt said he was advised from other tourism professionals to be sure there is clear line between economic development and tourism.

“I want everybody to work together, but the chamber (Anderson County Chamber of Commerce) is separate from tourism and tourism is separate from economic development,” explained Hyatt.

Brough noted that her position as president of the Anderson County Chamber of Commerce often overlaps with tourism efforts. Recently, she attended a tourism commission meeting in Berea.

In last month’s meeting, commission members expressed the possibility of having Brough take on the executive director position.

George Leamon said he supported Brough becoming the new executive director, but his only concern was the appearance to the public if the commission promoted one of its own. He suggested the commission advertise for the position.

Brad Barfield voiced his support for Brough as the executive director. He said the commission would be hard pressed to find a part-time employee committed to Anderson County tourism for the annual salary of $12,000.

“How committed will someone be at $1,000 a month? I see that commitment from Pam,” said Barfield.

Brough put the executive director decision to a vote. Barfield motioned for Brough to become the new executive director and Leamon seconded the motion. All other members were also in favor of the decision, except for Stewart Gritton who was not present to vote.

In anticipation that Brough could possibly be selected as the new tourism commission executive director, she said she spoke to the chamber of commerce board of directors to negotiate lowering her pay by $12,000.

With the that $12,000, Brough said the money will go toward the chamber board hiring a part-time clerk to assist, which she said will help free her up to interact with the community.

Brough said she plans commit 20 hour to the chamber of commerce and 20 hours to the tourism commission. She acknowledged that it won’t always be a clear split between the two roles, but she wants to be fair to both entities.

Due to the Anderson County Tourism Commission by-laws that prohibit commission members from receiving compensation, Brough resigned as chairperson at the meeting.

Gritton, who served as vice chairman, will become chairperson. Tourism commission by-laws also mandate the commission to be comprised of a seven-member team. With Brough taking on the executive director position, the commission will be short a member. Brough said the Anderson County Judge-Executive would have to appoint a new member.

Brough’s official start date as executive director is Dec. 1.

“There’s a lot that needs to be done with tourism,” she said.

By-laws still need to be ironed out, a new design for the tourism brochure, continue to update the website, creation of a Facebook page and developing partnerships with the distilleries to promote Anderson County to Bourbon Trail tourists, she said were just a few of the items that need to addressed immediately.

The commission will meet 8:30 a.m. Nov. 19 to discuss revamping the tourism commission brochure. The next regular tourism commission session will be 8:30 a.m. Dec. 16 at the chamber of commerce office, located on Glensboro Road.

BIRD

Combine all the ingredients and bring to boil for five minutes. Once that is complete, turn off the stovetop and let the mixture cool to room temperature.

While the brine is boiling, remove the innards from the turkey and thoroughly wash it inside and outside with cold water.

“This is really important to eliminate the taste of blood and make sure the turkey is clean inside and out,” said Aubrey. “It’s also important to leave the skin on. It holds the juices.”

After the turkey has been washed and the innards removed, place ice in the cavity of the turkey and fill it with the brine mixture once it has cooled to room temperature.

Cover the turkey and brine mixture and place it in the refrigerator for eight to 16 hours. Aubrey said he pours the brine on the turkey while it is breast side down and rotates the turkey after eight hours to make sure the brine thoroughly soaks in.

The next day, remove the turkey from the brine, the ice from the turkey’s cavity and rinse it three times in cold water and pat dry with a clean towel. Also, now would be a good time to preheat the oven to 500 degrees while other preparations are made.

The next step is to make the aromatics, which will be placed inside the turkey while it bakes in the oven to add another layer of flavor.

The aromatics recipe calls for:

- 1 cup of water
- 2 cinnamon sticks
- an apple cut into fourths (be sure to remove the seeds)

• half of a large onion that’s been cut into fourths

Microwave the mixture for five minutes in a microwave safe container.

“Microwaving the aromatics gets the flavors all working together,” he said.

While the aromatics are in the microwave, brush the turkey and completely coat it with canola oil. Don’t be afraid to apply the canola oil generously. Aubrey said the canola oil coating helps facilitate browning.

Remove the aromatics mixture from the microwave. Place the aromatics mixture in the cavity of the turkey. For added flavor, place three sprigs of Rosemary and six leaves of sage in the cavity of the turkey as well.

Place the turkey in a deep baking pan and place in the oven at 500 degrees. Bake the turkey in the oven at 500 degrees for 30 minutes. Aubrey said to be sure to place the turkey on the bottom rack of the oven to allow it to cook more evenly. Once baked for 30 minutes, cut the oven down to 350 degree and bake it for an additional two to two and a half hours.

Aubrey said he uses a food thermometer, in addition to a pop up turkey timer, to check the temperature of the turkey every 30 minutes after the initial 30-minute cooking period at 500 degrees to avoid overcooking the turkey. Aubrey said the ideal temperature for a cooked turkey is 161 degrees.

Once the turkey is done baking, Aubrey said he wraps the turkey in aluminum foil and lets it set for 15-20 minutes before carving to allow the juices to set.

“People are often intimidated by cooking a whole turkey, but it’s actually pretty easy,” said Aubrey.

Brough a good hire for tourism, but ...

Will election results bring spanking for Anderson County?

Column as I see 'em ...

It's encouraging to see the tourism commission actually making some headway by hiring a paid executive director who will, ostensibly, make sure tourism is paid something aside from lip service.

Pam Brough was hired for that job, which is similar to the one she already has as president of the chamber of commerce. She is obviously a solid choice for the position, but her selection does give one reason to pause.

Not that many years ago, tourism, chamber and economic development were merged into a messy entanglement managed by one person.

The chamber at that time received some tax dollars, with the balance of its funding coming via memberships and fundraisers. Tourism was publically funded, as was what at the time passed for economic development.

That unwieldy arrangement was well intended but doomed to fail as questions swirled almost constantly as to just which agency the person in charge was working for at any given moment.

The person in charge ultimately left, leaving the chamber to become fully privatized and economic development to reorganize into what it currently is: a public agency funded with small tax dollar contributions and living off its inheritance from the defunct Industrial Foundation.

Trouble is, perception is always the enemy of reality and at some point those who don't know her (or whomever comes after her down the road) will undoubtedly question why someone working for a private agency is also being publically paid.

which almost certainly isn't true. Having worked for years with her as a chamber board member, I can promise you she worked well beyond her stated hours on a regular basis just to ensure what needed to be done got done, and I have no doubt she'll do the same for tourism.

Trouble is, perception is always the enemy of reality and at some point those who don't know her (or whomever comes after her down the road) will undoubtedly question why someone working for a private agency is also being publically paid.

George Leamon, economic development's hired gun, serves on the tourism commission and said just before Brough was hired that for the sake of transparency, the tourism position should be advertised, allowing others to apply.

That would have been a wise course of action but one that was rejected in an effort to get the feckless agency for once moving forward. Waiting weeks for applications and conducting interviews almost certainly would have resulted in the same decision to hire Brough, anyway, because she's that well-suited for the job.

Now that she has it, along with devising ways to promote Anderson County, the commission would be wise to consider the transparency of having an employee paid with tax dollars while at the same time working for, and getting paid salary and commission from, a private chamber of commerce. Should the need arise, and history says it most certainly will, having a way to immediately and honestly demonstrate that taxpayers are getting their due is a must.

Speaking of taxpayers getting their due ...

There's little doubt, at least in my mind, that the fiscal court won't operate differently in any demonstrable way when its three new magistrates and judge-executive take office in January, first-time Republican majority or not.

What I'll be curious to see is just how well the fiscal court is received in Frankfort, particularly from the governor's office.

Let's be honest. Gov. Steve Beshear and his teammates went all in to get state Rep. Kim King the heck out of Anderson County. A small fortune was spent during the election trying to place this district back under control of a Democrat, which came on the heels of a dubious but successful effort to gerrymander the district to the point that getting that done was all but a slam dunk.

Of course that didn't happen. Not only did Republican James Tipton win the seat, he did so despite being from a much smaller county that, on the surface, shouldn't have had a chance.

Couple that with Republicans winning control of the fiscal court (and keeping control of the clerk's office) and you know Beshear and his pals are glaring down US 127 with more than a little contempt.

The good news is that money to fix our roads is largely distributed by a formula that doesn't take politics into consideration. That excludes so-called discretionary funds, which history here proves amount to a thinly disguised way to pave roads lived on by well-connected supplicants and supporters, regardless the condition of the road.

Then there are grants, which aren't formulaic and are subject to the whims of politicians eager to please those who fall in line and spank those who don't.

Given the above, it might be wise, Anderson County, to strap a pillow to our collective butts because a spanking is almost certainly headed our way.

Rotational grazing proves successful in Anderson County

This summer the Master Grazer Educational program conducted several demonstrations across Kentucky for producers to see best management practices in place, and the benefits they possess.

One of these demonstrations was implemented in Anderson County by David Burge. He had always utilized a continuous grazing system but was looking for ways to improve his grazing management and maximize land utilization.

As part of the project, a portion of the farm was managed under continuous grazing and another portion in a rotational grazing system. Mr. Burge had about 18 acres that he wanted to use in the rotational grazing portion, and around 20 acres to remain under continuous grazing.

The remainder of the farm was used for hay production, including some warm-season grasses he generally grazes as pasture.

The herd was divided into 12 cow/calf pairs in the rotational grazing system and nine cow/calf pairs in the continuous grazing system. When dividing the 18 acres for the rotational system he wanted six paddocks, each about three acres.

The managed grazing method allowed Mr. Burge to have a higher stocking rate. On the rotational grazing paddocks he ran 1.5 to 1.67 acres per cow/calf pair at a given time, while the rate for the continuous paddock was 2.2 acres per cow/calf pair. Decreasing acreage needed per cow/calf pair allows producers to expand their herd, resulting in more calves to sell over time.

A field day was held July 28 and Mr. Burge shared his experiences with rotational grazing, previously he had only used continuous grazing on this farm. He told participants that if he had divided each paddock in half, making a total of 12 paddocks, it would have been more effective.

Mr. Burge told us, "The initial plan takes longer to layout than you would imagine, and it does take some thinking, but definitely worth the effort."

Mr. Burge used two adjacent fields for his rotational grazing system. These fields had a permanent fence between them, and he then divided each field into three paddocks using temporary fencing materials. He told us, "anyone looking to try

Plenty of chores despite freezing temps

If this was 1973, or one of the next 23 years, I'd be one of those obnoxious people now sending pictures of thermometers showing 80 degrees to friends and family back home. I was in Phoenix, where winter lasts only two months, January and February. Winter is the only time that I really miss Arizona.

I keep telling myself that I only need to embrace winter. I need to find all the good things that come with winter. I'm still working on it. So far, I have that I don't have to mow every week. Actually, I like to mow, so that one doesn't really count. The only thing that I've come up with is that I have more free time. That's a good one.

I have more time to read, watch DVDs, play with the dogs, bake sweet treats. Notice the only thing in there that requires any real physical labor is playing with the dogs. I think that's why we all gain weight in the winter. Thank God for wood stoves or I'd rarely do anything outside.

We need to exercise daily and cutting, stacking and bringing wood into the house gives me plenty. Well, that and hiking up and down the drive when that white stuff makes it useful only for sledding downhill. The cold makes me want to hibernate. It makes the dogs have more energy than a room full of monkeys.

There are a few more things I need to do outside, but they're going to have to wait for a sunny and warmish day. In the meantime, I'm winterizing my outdoor equipment. It's not rocket science and unless you just like buying new equipment every year, everyone should do it.

Start with cleaning the tool, be it shovel, weed trimmer or lawn mower, or anything in between. Remove collected grease, dirt and plant material. Tighten any bolts or screws. Wipe down any cutting edges (blades) with an oily rag to prevent rust.

Then, deal with the gas.

Gasoline left in fuel tanks over the winter will degrade, leaving gum deposits and varnish build-up that will plug up the fuel system. You can drain the gas out of equipment by using a meat baster and putting it into a gas can to use in the car (if it is not a gas/oil mix) or by running it until it stops.

If you don't want to drain the gas out, then use a fuel stabilizer. It will keep the gas fresh until spring. Be sure to run the engine with the added stabilizer for five minutes before winter storage. There are numerous stabilizers on the market. Sta-Bil and Seafoam get a lot of positive recommendations. I've used both and have been successful every spring.

If mice are a problem in your equipment storage area, spend the $13 on a small bottle of cinnamon oil. Lace cotton balls with it and it will keep the mice from nesting in the area. Just don't forget to remove the balls you stuffed inside the riding mower engine in the spring.

Now, bundle up, baby; Frosty is here to stay. Get those chores done as soon as possible so you can cuddle on the couch with cocoa and just look outside and dream of spring. Happy growing.

Sweet and sour turkey great for leftovers

The holidays are quickly approaching, and with them, the season of great eating.

Save the Thanksgiving leftovers to provide quick meals for your family. Store leftovers promptly and reheat completely to prevent foodborne illnesses. Follow these tips to ensure your leftovers are safe to eat:

Refrigerate leftovers within two hours of the food sitting at room temperature. Bacteria grow best at temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees F.

For quicker cooling, divide leftovers into smaller portions in shallow containers. Place the hot food directly into the refrigerator. Don't let it cool on the counter.

Once you are ready to eat your leftovers, reheat them so the internal temperature of the food reaches 165 degrees. Check the temperature with a food thermometer. Safely reheat soups, sauces and gravies by bringing them to a boil.

When reheating in a microwave, make sure there are no cold spots in the food where bacteria could survive. Stir and rotate food for even heating.

Eat or freeze any remaining leftovers within three to four days. Consume or freeze gravy within two this needs to use temporary fencing for the first couple years at least, so they can determine where fences should be.”

After doing this exercise Mr. Burge stressed that a fenced alley accessible from all paddocks and leading to his handling facility would have been ideal.

He faced a pinkeye challenge this summer and on multiple occasions had to get animals to the handling facility, and he said a fenced alley would have saved him a lot of time and kept him from having to separate the groups repeatedly.

He also thought it would help having an alley because if the cattle were in the paddock farthest from the handling facility, he wouldn’t have to bring them through all the paddocks.

It is important to note that under normal farm circumstances only one herd would have been on the farm, which would have negated the importance of the alley. However, if farmers are managing replacement heifers or a group of weaned calves separately from the cow herd, then an alley would make management easier, as Mr. Burge explained. The demonstration’s objective was to illustrate firsthand the benefits of managed grazing versus continuous. The best way to do this is to have the systems side-by-side to compare which adds a few challenges.

Mr. Burge said, “Once you get it laid out well, it really is easy. The cattle learn the system within the first couple of rotations and after that they aren’t any trouble at all to move every three to four days.”

Even though the cattle get used to the system, a good electric charger is a must.

A problem he faced was dividing his cows and only having one bull. He said on multiple occasions his bull in the continuously grazed pasture would tear down the electric fence to get to the cows in heat in the rotational grazing system.

Mr. Burge stated that he believed rotational grazing would work best if the herd wasn’t split to prevent this problem.

Fifty units of nitrogen per acre were applied to the rotational grazed pastures, as well as a herbicide to paddocks with excessive weed pressure. When asked about weed control in the rotational paddocks compared to the continuously grazed field, Mr. Burge said he believed that improved pasture management would drastically improve weed control within the first couple years, even without using an herbicide. Weed pressure was decreased for the rotationally grazed paddocks, even over the short duration of this demonstration.

Another statement Mr. Burge made was, “A fundamental understanding of basic forages is needed to ensure that the cattle aren’t overgrazing the pastures, and you are moving them to the next paddock at the correct time”.

Mr. Burge said that rotational grazing can increase stocking rate if used effectively and that there is a benefit to using the method.

Sweet and Sour Turkey

Makes 6 servings

In large skillet or sauce pan, melt 2 tablespoons margarine, butter or oil over medium-low heat.

Add three quarters cup diced onion, 1 large red or green bell pepper diced, one half teaspoon ground ginger, one half teaspoon salt, and one quarter teaspoon ground red pepper.

Cover and cook vegetables, stirring occasionally for 10 minutes. Vegetables should be tender-crisp.

When mixture begins to thicken, add 3 to 4 cups of diced leftover turkey.

Bring mixture to a simmer over medium high heat, then turn heat to low.

Continue cooking for 10 minutes. Serve over cooked rice or chow mein noodles.

Note: canned vegetable broth or chicken broth can be substituted for turkey broth or gravy.

topics. I’ve even interview and photographed politicians with ease. I thought I had seen it all and it’d be nearly impossible to make me feel uncomfortable talking to a stranger that was until my boss, Ben Carlson, gave me the assignment to ask a local chef to cook a turkey for me and photograph and record the process.

Feeling comfortable talking to strangers and asking a stranger if you can stop by their kitchen while they cook a turkey for you are two totally different things, I learned.

Just the thought of it made me anxious. It’s a lot to ask my mother to cook Thanksgiving dinner for the family that requires a whole day of prep work, it was quite another to ask someone to spend a great deal of their time to cook a turkey for a total stranger.

Perhaps, if it were some Tollhouse break-and-bake-cookies I’d have felt more comfortable, but then again that would hardly be much of a story.

Janie Bowen, our bookkeeper and front desk extraordinaire, bought the turkey for me and we placed it in the fridge at work.

At that point, I had yet to find someone to cook the turkey so the pressure was on. No pun intended.

I asked the manager of Two Brothers restaurant in Lawrenceburg, and luckily his chef, Kenneth Aubrey, agreed to help. A big thanks to Two Brothers and Aubrey for taking time out of their day to teach me how to cook a turkey and allowing me to invade their kitchen.

Admittedly, I know very little about cooking a turkey. I’m recently married, and I always had Thanksgiving dinner with my family, which my mother always prepared. I’d help her with little things like beating the mashed potatoes, but the turkey was all mom. Well, dad would carve it.

I’ve watched mom prepare turkey for every year I’ve been on this earth, but if you set me in the kitchen with all the materials, I’d be clueless.

With a chef willing to help me, I drove from the office with the frozen 14-pound bird and walked through the doors of Two Brothers with the turkey in an aluminum pan. I stood there for a few seconds in front of the main entrance and gained more than a few sheepish looks. A woman behind the bar said, “Oh, you’re with the paper, aren’t you?” and lead me to the kitchen in the back.

I came back on Sunday afternoon and Aubrey showed me how to brine a turkey. Aubrey explained that letting the turkey soak in this mixture of chicken broth, brown sugar, candied ginger, black peppercorn and other spices helped keep the turkey moist.

On Monday, I came back and we removed the turkey from the brine mixture and baked it. Aubrey said he prefers to cook his at 500 degrees to ensure a nice brown, crisp skin.

Watching and learning about cooking a turkey was actually pretty neat. I felt like Guy Fieri of “Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives” except for the culinary knowledge and bleached, spiky hair.

I can officially say that I know how to cook a turkey, and it’s a lot easier than I thought it would be. As a journalist, I often have to step outside of my comfort zone, but I always learn something new in the process.

Puncheon Creek debuts new CD to packed house

By Shelley Spillman
News staff

Brandon Warren, harmony vocalist and guitar player for Puncheon Creek, said the band is “pleased as punch” to see the culmination of four years of work come together at Puncheon Creek’s CD release party to promote the band’s first album “Café on the Corner” on Saturday at Wild Turkey Trace.

Though the band members have families, full time jobs and other commitments, they worked on the album one to two days a week at Steve Ross’ home to make their first album. The album was composed and recorded in Lawrenceburg.

The band is made up of Warren, Ross, who plays guitar, mandolin and harmony vocal, Tim Frederick, who wrote the majority of the songs on the album and acts as lead vocalist, and Keith Freeman, who is plays guitar, mandolin and harmony vocals.

Opening for Puncheon Creek was the husband and wife duo Cole and Jessica Ripy of The Highs and the Lows. The two are newlyweds and have been playing together for more than two years. They describe their sound as “roots rock.” Jessica and Cole played a few of their original love songs a few classic covers such as “Jolene.”

Though Wild Turkey Trace was packed with little room to dance, it didn’t stop guests from toe tapping and finger dancing on the tabletops to Puncheon Creek’s tunes.

Puncheon Creek’s music details small town life in the south. Their songs are written about the local diner where townspeople gather for a burger and slice of pie after the game, the love and care put into grandma’s potato soup, Bonds Mill Dam in Lawrenceburg and a 1952 Dodge is the lady discussed in “Lizzie.” Warren said their songs are about all the little things in life that if you didn’t take the time to smell the roses, you may not notice.

The concert featured mostly original tunes from their new album and few covers such as the 1946 tune “Route 66” made popular by Nat King Cole.

The evening marked a great victory for the band, but it was also with sorrow that they announced that Keith Freeman was leaving the band to pursue other interests. Saturday was his last performance with Puncheon Creek.

Band members expressed how much they’d miss Freeman before he played his tune “Lizzie.”

“I want to thank everybody for supporting the band. I love these guys. They’re like my brothers,” said Freeman.

Ross and Freeman have known each other all their lives and starting playing music together as far back as second grade, Ross said.

The band played their last song and was greeted with loud applause and demands for an encore. Puncheon Creek played “City of New Orleans” as their final song of the night.

The band thanked all their family and friends for coming out and supporting them.

The crowd all seemed to really enjoy the concert.

“It was really fun,” said Pam Brown, whose husband grew up with Frederick. “I like the variety of their music.”

ADAM H. EDELEN AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

The Honorable John Wayne Conway, Anderson County Judge/Executive
The Honorable Troy Young, Anderson County Sheriff
Members of the Anderson County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor’s Report

Report on the Financial Statement

We have audited the accompanying statement of revenues, expenditures, and excess fees - regulatory basis of the County Sheriff of Anderson County, Kentucky, for the year ended December 31, 2013, and the related notes to the financial statement.

Management’s Responsibility for the Financial Statement

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in accordance with accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky’s regulatory basis of accounting as described in Note 1. Management is also responsible for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement that is free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor’s Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statement based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statement is free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statement. The procedures selected depend on the auditor’s judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statement, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity’s preparation and fair presentation of the financial statement in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity’s internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statement. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

As described in Note 1 of the financial statement, the financial statement is prepared by the County Sheriff on the basis of the accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the laws of Kentucky to demonstrate compliance with the Commonwealth of Kentucky’s regulatory basis of accounting, which is a basis of accounting other than accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The effects on the financial statement of the variances between the regulatory basis of accounting described in Note 1 and accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, although not reasonably determinable, are presumed to be material.

Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles

In our opinion, because of the significance of the matter discussed in the Basis for Adverse Opinion on U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles paragraph, the financial statement referred to above does not present fairly, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, the financial position of each fund of the County Sheriff, as of December 31, 2013, or changes in financial position or cash flows thereof for the year then ended.

Opinion on Regulatory Basis of Accounting

In our opinion, the financial statement referred to above presents fairly, in all material respects, the revenues, expenditures, and excess fees of the County Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 2013, in accordance with the basis of accounting practices prescribed or permitted by the Commonwealth of Kentucky as described in Note 1.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated July 28, 2014 on our consideration of the Anderson County Sheriff’s internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts and grant agreements, and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of the Anderson County Sheriff’s internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. This report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering the entity’s internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Respectfully submitted,

Adam H. Edelen

Man jailed for check-cashing scheme, two others for drugs

From staff reports

An alleged cash-checking scheme has landed one man in jail and two friends in trouble on drug charges.

William Whetzel, 21, of 1042 Dan Drive, Lawrenceburg remains behind bars on $5,000 cash bail for attempting to cash checks that did not belong to him on two occasions.

Whetzel has faced numerous criminal charges in the past couple of years, including being caught carrying firearms on Anderson County Middle School property.

His latest arrests stem from two check-cashing incidents, including one Nov. 5 when he and two friends were arrested at the Lawrenceburg branch of Commonwealth Credit Union.

Whetzel, according to police reports, altered a check written to Bowling Green resident Dane Hillyer and attempted to cash it at the credit union.

"The check was obviously altered by being erased and Whetzel's name written on it," said Lawrenceburg Police Det. Jeremy Cornish.

Police were called to the credit union when staff saw what is described as three suspicious men in the parking lot. With Whetzel were Brian Wells, 29, of 1523 Alton Station Road, and Marcus Penny, 25, of 210 Evergreen Road.

When he approached the car, Lawrenceburg Police officer Kenny Goodlett said he saw one of the men, Wells, attempting to conceal a syringe in his shirt sleeve. Wells was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia and tampering with physical evidence. He was released last Thursday by District Court Judge Betty Springate on a two year conditional discharge, provided he completes a drug rehabilitation program.

Penny, who police say took off on foot around the bank when Goodlett approached the vehicle, was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, fleeing or evading on foot and tampering with physical evidence.

In his report, Goodlett said when Penny ran, he saw him throw items into a trashcan, which turned out to be a spoon and syringe.

Goodlett, in his report, said he found those items in the trash and that Penny told him they were for his "opiate needs" and that he "needed a fix to stop it from hurting."

Penny was also granted a two-year conditional discharge and must complete drug rehabilitation.

Whetzel was also charged Nov. 12 with four counts of criminal possession of a forged instrument and four counts of forgery for allegedly stealing checks from a Briar Creek residence where he was living at the time and trying to cash them at Commonwealth Credit Union.

The checks were on a closed account, police said, and Whetzel wrote his name on them and tried to cash them.

Peach almost speechless Friday night ... almost

I've known Mark Peach about 28 years, or ever since I saw him play offensive tackle at Anderson County High School for Sam Harp.

That's roughly 10,227 days, give or take a few here or there. I can honestly say that for about 10,222 of those days, I don't believe I had ever seen Mark Peach unable to come up with words.

As he got ready to address the current Anderson team Friday night, Peach was speechless.

Literally speechless.

"Guys," he began. He could only smile.

"Guys," he started again, but could only smile again.

Now, don't get me wrong. The dearth in Peach's vocabulary lasted only 15 seconds or so.

Then it was vintage Peach.

"Special teams, I tell you what, our special teams were fantastic," he started his talk after watching his team pull a playoff win from their helmets Friday night at South Oldham.

You look at the score, a 42-38 Anderson win, and see South Oldham averaging nearly 10 yards per play, about 3.5 more than the Bearcats. You look at those totals, South Oldham piling up 312 yards running the ball - remember the old saying that the team that runs the ball best will win? - to Anderson's 165. You see the chasm between the total offense numbers (549-382) and wonder why in the world Anderson County had a film session Saturday morning.

But the guys sporting smiles were wearing white uniforms with red numbers Friday night in Crestwood.

Anderson County 42, South Oldham 38.

The simple answer is that South Oldham gave one away. There is a lot of truth to that since the Dragons turned the ball over five times, three resulting in Anderson touchdowns, and gave up another score when the Bearcats blocked a punt.

However, those who have watched the Anderson County program grow under Peach had seen nights like this before.

The truth is that over the last five or six years, Anderson has rarely beaten itself in big games and the Bearcats, more often than not, make opponents pay for their gaffes. Friday was no exception.

On the verge of being blown out, Peach and his staff called for a punt block. It worked to perfection. The Bearcats scored 28 points off South Oldham miscues.

It might not have won a lot of style points, but the bottom line is that Anderson advanced. Championship teams find a way to move on.

There have obviously been exceptions. See Franklin County, 2014, or Pulaski County, 2013, for details.

But Anderson showed Friday night what championship football can be about. On a night when things were not going well for the Bearcats, they still found a way to win.

Back when Peach returned home to coach football in 2005, Anderson County football had made the regional championship game twice (1972 and 1987) since 1959, when the Kentucky High School Athletic Association instituted the state football playoffs.

It took six seasons, but Peach got the Bearcats to the regional final in 2010. The Bearcats lost that thriller to John Hardin, but when Anderson hosts Cooper Friday night, it will mark the fourth time in the last five seasons the Bearcats have gone that in the playoffs.

Anderson has won two of them, in 2011 and last year.

Critics of the six-class system that Kentucky adopted in 2007 will point out that nearly everyone gets in the playoffs now, which is true. More than 80 percent of high school teams in Kentucky make the post-season.

Some would also point out that when the state went to six classes, Anderson was able to steer clear of the traditional powers, such as former district rivals Harrodsburg, Bardstown or Danville, which had always stood in Anderson's path.

But to focus on those things overlooks the remarkable spot where Anderson county football is standing in 2014. Since 2007, Anderson has qualified for the playoffs as a No. 1 or No. 2 seed every single year.

BEARCATS BLOCK DRAGON DREAM

Anderson County's Chris Toomey (4) blocks a punt by South Oldham's David Hayden during Friday's state playoff game in Crestwood. Anderson's Landon Curry picked up the loose ball and returned it for a touchdown to jump start the Bearcats. Anderson rallied from a 14-0 deficit to post a 42-38 win.

Special teams fuel Bearcats ride to fourth regional final in five seasons

CRESTWOOD - It was too early to panic.

But Anderson County needed a shot in the arm. And quick.

Trailing 14-0 and showing just 10 yards, no first downs and a turnover in their first three possessions, the Bearcats looked nothing like a team ready to advance in the state Class 5A playoffs.

"I was thinking, stay in and keep your head up," Anderson senior Landon Curry said.

Or, in this case, it might have been, "Keep your hands up."

Chris Toomey did just that, bursting through the South Oldham line to block David Hayden's punt at the Dragon 37. Curry picked the loose ball up and scored from 16 yards.

It was the start of a rousing comeback that saw the Bearcats take the lead before halftime, lose it and then regain the lead for good in the third quarter.

The Bearcats prevailed, 42-38, on a night when little went right early. They advanced to the Class 5A, Region 3 championship game by scoring 28 points directly set up by South Oldham miscues.

Anderson will host Cooper in the regional final Friday, Nov. 21. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. It is the fourth time in the last five years that Anderson has advanced to the regional final.

"It was a total team effort tonight," Anderson coach Mark Peach said.

"Our special teams made it happen tonight. They played so well."

Indeed.

South Oldham had taken only eight plays to chew up 129 yards and score twice in less than eight minutes. The Dragons' Keenan John then intercepted Anderson quarterback Zachary Carmichael on the second play of the Bearcats' third possession.

The blowout was just waiting to happen, but it didn't.

"I was just hoping we could make a play or do something to get us started," said Carmichael, who had briefly left the team six days earlier. "We did it on special teams."

Toomey shot through the line, virtually untouched to get to Hayden's kick and Curry was not touched after scooping the ball up. It would be the first of three touchdowns for Curry, a career high.

Curry also kicked six extra points, giving him 24 points on the night.

"That blocked punt definitely changed the momentum of the game. There is no doubt about that," Peach said. "We try to have some time every day to work on special teams. Some teams don't put as much time into the special teams, but we try to do that. When those situations present themselves, you can take advantage of it."

South Oldham owned one of the state's most powerful offenses, leading the state's Class 5A with

CHRISTIAN ACADEMY OF LAWRENCEBURG

Rams open with impressive wins

From staff reports
The Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg boys' varsity basketball team opened the season with a pair of impressive victories as they look to defend their state championship. Christian Academy took the Kentucky Christian School Athletic Association Class 3A title last season. The Rams overcame a slow start to whip the Louisville Christian Home Educators, 63-32, in Shepherdsville on Nov. 4. They followed with a 63-48 home court win over Hearts for Christ, also of Louisville. In the opener, the Rams staggered through a poor first half performance, but the Rams got rolling in the second half, forcing six turnovers and using better shot selection to blister the nets at a 68 percent clip on the way to an easy win. Against Hearts for Christ, coached by former Christian Academy player Jared Slaughter, the Rams started slow again, leading only 8-7 after a quarter. Attacking the basket, the Rams opened their lead to 32-23 at halftime as two Hearts for Christ players had been saddled with three fouls each. Freshman Zach Dennis scored 10 of his team-leading 14 points in the second quarter. Junior Chandler Royalty

COLLEGE BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Anderson County resident Ariel McKee works on her jump shot at Morehead State University. McKee got her college career off to a rousing start at Norfolk State on Friday.

McKee rips Norfolk State, status questionable for UK

Cann shines in debut; Asbury men take first loss

From staff reports

Anderson County High School graduate Ariel McKee started her college basketball career with 20 points and 7 rebounds to lead the Morehead State women to a season opening win at Norfolk State Friday night.

McKee's 20 points was the first double-digit scoring output for a Morehead freshman in their first game since the 2006-07 season.

McKee, however, left the game with an apparent concussion, with nine minutes to play and did not play in the Lady Eagles' 79-70 win at George Mason Sunday.

As of Monday, McKee had not been cleared to play as the Eagles get ready to take on No. 11 Kentucky in Memorial Coliseum.

and 12 rebounds as the Lady Eagles won twice last week. Asbury rolled past Kentucky Christian, 98-53, last Tuesday. Anderson grad Jessica Rice scored two points and had a rebound for Kentucky Christian.

Asbury then squeaked by Kentucky Wesleyan, 70-68.

Asbury men split two in Indiana tournament

C.J. Penny scored 15 points and pulled down 3 rebounds, but it was not enough as Huntington took the championship game of its own tournament Saturday afternoon.

Asbury (5-1) led by as many as 14 points early in the second half before Huntington rallied to hand the Eagles their first loss of the season.

Penny tallied 12 points, snared 7 rebounds and dished out a team-high 5 assists as Asbury won its fifth straight game in the first round of the Huntington Tournament Friday.

Anderson County High School graduates Christian Estes, Luke Mann and Zach Freeman are also members of the Asbury team. Eagle head coach Will Shouse is also an Anderson grad.

Cincinnati 73, Arkansas-Pine Bluff 57

Makenzie Cann had a great start to her University of Cincinnati career, coming off the bench to score 11 points and grab 6 rebounds as the Bearcats opened the season with a win.

Bearcats, Cooper meet again with season on the line

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Rivalries can take many forms in high school football. For Anderson County there are the old ones like Mercer County and Woodford County. Anderson has been playing them – and their predecessors – almost on an annual basis from those schools were formed.

Then there are the close by schools, like Franklin County, who the Bearcats have played periodically, but, given the proximity, becomes a big one when it shows up on the schedule.

And there is Cooper. There's nothing to suggest Anderson and Cooper – no newsman jokes, please – should be rivals. The schools are about 100 miles apart. Anderson is a somewhat rural community while Boone County, where Cooper is located, is a major part of the Cincinnati suburbs.

But thanks to the luck of a the current Class 5A football alignment, Cooper and Anderson County run into each other again in the playoffs. It will be the third straight year the Jaguars have visited Anderson, but this time, it's two weeks later.

The teams will battle for the Region 3 championship Friday night at Warford Stadium.

In 2012, Cooper started its run to the state championship game with a 48-0 shellacking of the Bearcats in the first round of the play-

Last year, Anderson began it's journey to the state semi-finals with a 45-35 win over the Jaguars.

“Cooper is an outstanding football team,” says Anderson coach Mark Peach. “I have seen them on film. They are extremely well-coached. They are a great program.”

Neither team was supposed to get this far, as both entered the playoffs as No. 2 seeds from their respective districts. But while Anderson was defeating South Oldham Friday night, Cooper was putting a 27-6 hurting on Franklin County to set up the rubber match between the programs.

It should be a doozy. According to the Lexington Herald-Leader's Rating the State, Anderson is a very slight favorite.

Check out the Courier-Journal Litkenhous Ratings and Cooper is the razor-thin pick.

“The number one thing that jumps out to me on Anderson County is how hard they play,” Cooper coach Randy Borchers said in an e-mail. “Every year our staff comments on how fundamentally sound they are.

“They like to show you a lot of different looks offensively and hurt you where they feel they have the best match-up.”

Borchers is the only coach Cooper has known since it was formed out of Conner and Boone County in 2008.

Peach says his team will have its hands full in its final home game of 2014.

“Their quarterback is 6-4 and pretty talented,” he says. That quarterback, Billy Prickett, came into the playoff game last year after starter Will Ludwig went out with a severely cut lip late in the first half.

Prickett has completed almost 59 percent of his passes for 1,338 yards so far this year. He's only been intercepted five times and has thrown 14 touchdown passes.

Running back Torey Cordell, a junior, has run for 1,343 yards and 11 scores.

Linebacker Seth Keller returned two interceptions for touchdowns against Franklin County.

It is virtually impossible to get a read on the contest through comparative scores. Other than Franklin, which spanked Anderson by two touchdowns, games against common opponents – South Oldham, Scott and Woodford County – have produced similar scores.

It will come down to who does the little things right.

“We've got business to take care of next week because Cooper is a really good team,” Anderson quarterback Zach Carmichael said.

Peach agrees. “Randy does an incredible job when you look at how young their program is,” he says. “Every time we have played them they have brought a ton of fans, students and the band. It should be a great atmosphere this Friday.”

Borchers is looking forward to it.

“Our football team loves to come to Anderson County and play because we feel that they are a first-class program and they play the game the right way,” he says. “The players are very physical and play extremely hard but they do it with pride and class.

“We hope to bring our football team back to Anderson County Friday and represent our school and community well. We are hoping to play well and have an opportunity to win the game.

“We know that we will get Anderson's best game and their players are hungry to make another trip to the semi's. We will need to match their intensity and energy and play mistake-free football to have a chance to win it in the fourth quarter.”

290 yards a game on the ground, and had scored with ease early. “Our team's not used to punting,” South Oldham coach Jamie Reed told The Oldham Era. “I think some guys were on the sideline not really paying attention, running in late, not getting set, not understanding the urgency of the play.”

Peach had reminded his team that despite falling behind 14-0 when the teams played on Sept. 5, the Bearcats were driving for a possible game-winning score but fell short, 52-43.

“He kept telling us this happened last time and we have just got to bounce back,” said Anderson's Brayden Russell.

Anderson spotted South a Drew Koch field goal on the first play of the second quarter, then slowly began to refine the formula for advancing. The Bearcats drew within 17-14, going 84 yards in eight plays. Carmichael found a wide-open Curry across the middle for a 43-yard catch and run for six points.

Then after South Oldham bobbled the ensuing kickoff and started at its own five, Russell stripped Starr Thompson of the ball at the nine and returned it for a touchdown to make it 21-17 Anderson.

While South Oldham out-gained the Bearcats, 549-382, the Dragons repeatedly gave Anderson chances. South Oldham lost four fumbles, three leading to scores, and Russell intercepted a pass to stop another drive.

Anderson defensive back Lane Bicknell pounced on two South Oldham fumbles, the second setting up a third quarter drive that ended with Carmichael finding Curry for a 9-yard touchdown pass with 3:05 to go in the third quarter.

That one put Anderson in front 28-24 and the Bearcats never trailed again.

“We had been practicing those passes all week,” Curry said. “I was hoping we would be open.”

“Lane is just one of those guys,” Peach said of Bicknell. “He is not the most talented guy, but he has made himself into a great football player, just because he shows up in the weight room every chance he can. He took extra repetitions in spring practice.”

Anderson got some breathing room with 9:34 to play when Carmichael connected with Toomey who was wide open on a fourth-and-2 situation at the South 25, making it 35-24

After South Oldham had gotten back with 35-31 on a 56-yard pass from Michael McGee to Ethan Reinert, the Bearcats got the clinching score when Carmichael found Toomey again, this time with no one within 15 yards of him, for a 9-yard touchdown, with 2:23 to go.

While the Bearcats have had the lob from Carmichael to Toomey in their arsenal all season, Peach said Friday was the first time he had called the play in game conditions.

“I told the guys during the timeout (taken by South Oldham on third-and-5), ‘We have been working on that play all year in a goal line situation.’”

South Oldham struck quickly again with Reinert taking a 29-yard touchdown pass from McGee 42 seconds later, but after South Oldham's onside kick did not go the required 10 yards, the Bearcats ran out the final 1:41.

A 22-yard pass from Carmichael to Ryan Martin on third-and-5 at the South Oldham 42 allowed the Bearcats to take a knee for their final two snaps.

“I just felt relief,” Russell smiled when asked about Martin's catch.

Anderson, now 9-3, moves on after winning its eighth game in the last nine tries. South Oldham, which was trying to advance past the second round of the playoffs for the first time since 1992, ended the year at 8-3.

Game notes

The temperature dipped into the low 20's throughout the night but the wind was minimal. While the cold often creates problems throwing or catching the ball, Anderson hit 15-of-26 passes for 217 yards. “I was just pleased we were able to throw and catch the ball tonight,” Peach said.

As the Bearcats were trying to run out the clock, all eyes were on senior center Jarrod Cubert. He said the cold was not a factor in his snaps, but the artificial turf at Dragon Stadium forced some adjustments.

“It's a little different on turf,” he said. “That is about the only problem I had. The turf is a little slicker, so I had a different snap.”

**Anderson thought it had a second fumble returned for a touchdown when lineman Conner Stockton scooped up a loose ball and returned it 38 yards for a score midway through the fourth quarter. An flag for an illegal block took Stockton's first career score down, but the senior was not upset. “We got the ball back. It was a team effort,” he said.

The recovery did result in the second scoring pass from Carmichael to Toomey.

ber: While some bad teams do make it to the playoffs, they are usually exposed in the first round. If not, they most assuredly are sent packing in round two. When you get to the regional final, regardless of the sport, you are mighty good and are doing something right.

When Peach arrived, simply making the playoffs was all that mattered. Anderson had not won a playoff game in 13 years. Just last week, the Bearcats came in at No. 24 statewide – in all classes – in the Lexington Herald-Leader's Rating the State rankings. The bottom line is the Bearcat program is in mighty good shape. They will be playing a game Friday night as a testament to that fact.

I asked Peach about the difference Friday night.

Again he was almost speechless. After about 10 seconds, he smiled and said he'd set a goal in front of his team.

“We are not just satisfied to play for the regional championship,” Peach said Friday. “We have had so many great teams and great players in our program. One thing we don't have is a state championship.”

The Bearcats can get one step closer Friday night.

Bearcats rally to beat South Oldham

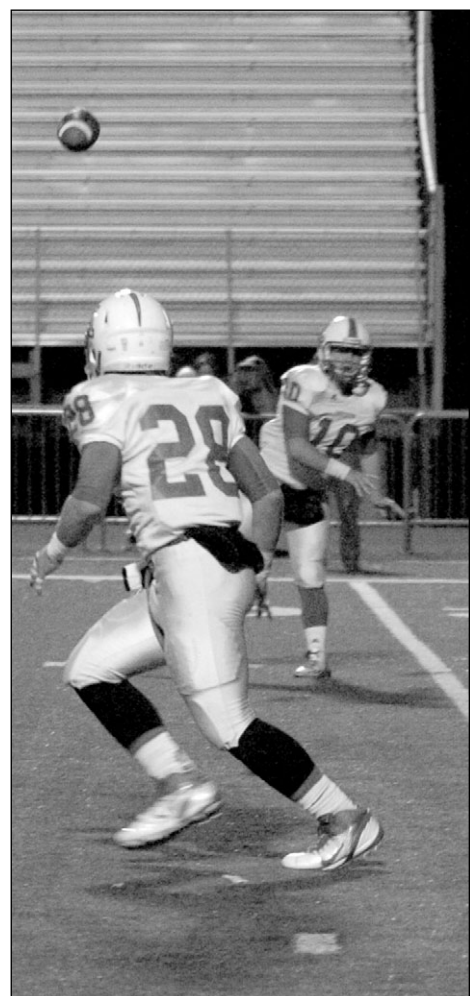

Brayden Russell goes up for a catch. Russell had several big catches and returned a fumble for a touchdown.

Caleb Dowell carries the American flag and leads the Bearcats onto the turf at Dragon Stadium Friday night in Crestwood.

Anderson County players Zachary Carmichael (10), Chris Toomey (4), Conner Stockton and Bryndon Labhart (28) celebrate after Carmichael and Toomey connected on a 25-yard scoring pass to put the Bearcats up 35-24 on South Oldham.

Anderson quarterback Zachary Carmichael dumps a pass to fullback Bryndon Labhart.

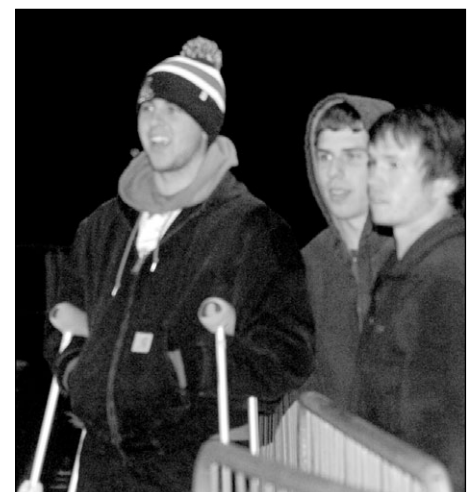

Landon Curry (16) races to the end zone with a 43-yard touchdown catch, his second score of the night. He finished with three touchdowns. Ryan Martin (20) looks to block.

Anderson County's Conner Stockton scoops up a fumble. His return for a touchdown was called back by a penalty but the recovery set up the clinching Anderson score.

Anderson fan LeAnn Curry whoops it up after her son, Landon, scores the first of his three touchdowns on a blocked punt.

Injured Anderson County player Dusty Puckett (left) chats with Anderson students James Brown and Chris Sea as the Bearcats have the victory in hand and run the clock out.

Anderson County's Lane Bicknell (19) stops South Oldham's Starr Thompson. Bicknell came up with two fumble recoveries, one setting up an Anderson touchdown as the Bearcats slipped past South Oldham.

Net Metering Service – Rate NMS

Company proposes text changes to the definition of "Billing Period Credit" to clarify that such a credit is a kWh-denominated electricity credit only, not a monetary credit. Company further proposes text changes to the Metering and Billing section to clarify how the Company accounts for billing period credits for customers taking service under time-of-day rates.

Standard Rider for Redundant Capacity Charge – Rider RC

Capacity Reservation Charge per Month:	Current (Per kW/kVA)	Proposed (Per kW/kVA)
Secondary Distribution	$1.49	$1.12
Primary Distribution	$1.25	$1.11

Standard Rider for Supplemental or Standby Service – Rider SS

Contract Demand per month:	Current (Per kW/kVA)	Proposed (Per kW/kVA)
Secondary	$12.54	$12.84
Primary	$11.99	$11.63
Transmission	$10.84	$10.58

Also, Company proposes text changes to the Minimum Charge provision to clarify that for a Rider SS customer, Company will bill the customer monthly for all of the charges under the customer's applicable rate schedule, including, but not limited to, the applicable basic service charge, energy charges, and adjustment clauses. In addition to those charges, Company will bill the customer monthly a demand charge that is the greater of: (1) the customer's total demand charge calculated under the applicable rate schedule; or (2) the demand charge calculated using the applicable demand rate shown above applied to the Contract Demand.

Temporary and/or Seasonal Electric Service - Rider TS

Availability of Service:

Current: This rider is available at the option of the Customer where Customer's business does not require permanent installation of Company's facilities and is of such nature to require:

- only seasonal service or temporary service, including service provided for construction of residences or commercial buildings, and where in the judgment of Company the local and system electrical facility capacities are adequate to serve the load without impairment of service to other customers; or
- where Customer has need for temporary use of Company facilities and Company has facilities it is willing to provide.

This service is available for not less than one (1) month (approximately 30 days), but when service is used longer than one (1) month, any fraction of a month's use will be prorated for billing purposes.

Proposed: This rider is available at the option of Company where:

- Customer's business does not require permanent installation of Company's facilities excluding service provided for construction of permanent delivery points for residences and commercial buildings, and is of such nature to require only seasonal service or temporary service; or
- the service is over 50 kW, provided for construction purposes, and where in the judgment of Company the local and system electrical facility capacities are adequate to serve the load without impairment of service to other customers; or
- where Customer has need for temporary intermittent use of Company facilities and Company has facilities it is willing to provide Customer for installation and operational testing of Customer's equipment.
This service is available for not less than one (1) month (approximately thirty (30) days), but when service is used longer than one (1) month, any fraction of a month's use will be prorated for billing purposes. Where this service is provided under 2 or 3 above, Company will determine the term of service, which shall not exceed one (1) year.

Standard Rate for Low Emission Vehicle Service – Rate LEV

Current
Basic Service Charge per Month:	$10.75
Energy Charge per kWh:
Off-Peak Hours	$0.05587
Intermediate Hours	$0.07763
Peak Hours	$0.14297

Proposed – This rate schedule is proposed to be eliminated. The Company will make all reasonable efforts to contact Rate LEV customers to advise them of their new rate options after the Commission approves the new rates but before they take effect (at which time Rate LEV will terminate). Because Rate RTOD-Energy is the new rate most similar to Rate LEV, the Company will automatically transfer to Rate RTOD-Energy all Rate LEV customers who have not responded to the Company's outreach efforts by the effective date of the new rates; however, the Company will continue to make reasonable efforts to obtain those customers' input even after the rate change.

Economic Development Rider – Rider EDR

Company proposes changes to Rider EDR's Terms and Conditions to: (1) clarify the minimum demand required for the rider to be available to customer; (2) increase the range of certifications that can make a customer eligible for Rider EDR to include the Kentucky Business Investment Program (KBI), or the Kentucky Industrial Revitalization Act (KIRA), or the Kentucky Jobs Retention Act (KJRA), or other comparable programs approved by the Commonwealth of Kentucky; and (3) clarify that no credit under EDR will be calculated or applied to a customer's billing in any billing month in which the customer's metered load is less than the load required to be eligible for either Brownfield Development or Economic Development.

HOROSCOPES

December 22–January 19

Tired of the shuffle at work, Capricorn? So are a lot of other people. Put a stop to the madness before it gets out of hand. A friend repays a loan.

March 21–April 19

It is not all or nothing, Aries. There are plenty of compromises to be made. A letter keeps you on your toes. Don’t let up on that special someone.

June 22–July 22

Hush, Cancer. It is not your story to tell. All will be revealed in good time. Laughter erupts at home with the arrival of guest. More fun is on tap.

September 23–October 22

Resources multiply with an acquisition. Share the wealth, Libra. A difference of opinion makes for a very interesting weekend. Do tell.

January 20–February 18

Feeling antsy, Aquarius? You are not alone. Lucky for you, a decision is about to be made, and you will be blessed tenfold. A request is denied.

April 20–May 20

Loose lips wreak havoc at the office. Don’t add fuel to the fire, Taurus. Time spent at a weekend event inspires design updates throughout the home.

July 23–August 22

Lucky Leo in love. That phrase describes you to a T this week. Sparks fly, and you have much to be thankful for. Travel is on the agenda, and a camera will come in handy.

October 23–November 21

Yes, Scorpio, honesty can be brutal, but it can also be liberating. Tell the truth and set a friend free. A treatment option requires further investigation.

February 19–March 20

Be careful, Pisces. Be very careful. Someone is trying to pull a fast one on you. A trade is made at home, and you benefit in more ways than one.

May 21–June 21

Gargantuan efforts to help another fall flat. While unsuccessful, your efforts will not go unnoticed, Gemini. A master plan is put into motion.

August 23–September 22

Good food and good friends make for a blessed week. Enjoy, Virgo. Time away from the office provides a fresh perspective and a new solution.

November 22–December 21

No, Sagittarius. You do not have to fulfill every request that comes your way. Choose those worthwhile and opt out of the rest. A pal drops by.
